MAJOR RICHARD SYLVESTER.
The Chief of Police, who had the jubilee parades.

EDW. B. WHITNEY.

Politicians ought to tell the truth. Put a small man in a big position and he will forget himself.

Why is justice in Washington like the weather?

Because it is changeable. The justice that is meted out to the white man not given to the negro.

There is but little hope for the negro in the South.

The Bee editor is not looking for an office and neither does he want one.

Unhappy is the man who hangs on official favors.

Abolish the office of justice of the peace.

It is better that they are abolished.

All offices in the District of Columbia should be filled by election.

The negro vote will divide in 1900.

Our new leadership is made out of that which cannot be seen.

In union there is strength.

E. M. Hewlett is the most manly negro attorney before the District bar.

Be is not the man to cater for favors.

If there was more manhood in negro attorneys they would succeed better.

Be truthful, it will pay always.

There is too much treachery among certain negroes to succeed.

This world was not made for the white man alone.

It is not well to tell all you know.

Be careful of what you say and to whom you say it.

Don't be too hasty in coming to a conclusion.

The Maryland politicians have not been cared for as yet.

Will the negro vote ever become a factor in American body politics?

Be what you say you are nothing more.

Deception is sooner or later detected.

An honest man is a truthful man.

You should do nothing that is distasteful to good society.

It is not the person who grins in your face, that should be regarded as your friend.

Don't place too much confidence in the person who pretends friendship.

Be honest with your fellow man.

The best policy is when you can not do a thing say so.

It will never effect you to be truthful.

Don't be alarmed at a little noise.

The try daily has been struggling hard since its publication.

It came out one day and has been trying hard ever since to make its appearance daily.

Can any one tell the difference between the old school and new school of politicians?

Well out of the great number of officers appointed in the army not one negro was appointed.

What has become of the repeal the civil service law?

Don't forget how the negroes fought on San Juan Hill.

General Miles thinks well of the negro soldiers.

And yet not a negro officer has been appointed in the regular army.

The man who speaks the truth is the man to trust.

Don't be too impetuous in your deliberation.

The man who thinks he knows it all is generally affected with the big head.

There was tyranny in the schools on the part of certain school officers.

There are some school officials too much on the old woman order.

The day will soon come when all will be placed on a level.

It is not the wise man who makes a fool of himself.

Our head swells some times beyond the usual size.

TEXAS' SINGING WELL.

It Gives Out Weird Sounds and Rises and Falls With the Wind.

About three miles west of Cedar Bayou, Harris county, Texas is a remarkable well. When it was dug no one can tell, but it has been in existence for more than 60 years. The well is known as the "Singing Well."

In calm, fine weather a sound like that of an Aeolian harp comes upward between the angles of vines below. At times the sound seems nearer and clearer; then again it recedes, as if far away, and reaches the ear very faintly. These changes take place every few minutes and with great regularity. With an east wind blowing the water in the well gets very low and the mysterious musical sound very faint. A strong west wind causes the water to rise and the sound to increase in volume and clearness.

But it is just before a great norther that the old well plays its wildest pranks. Then, for several hours, the water rises to within a few feet of the top of the well, and emits the wildest, wildest noises that ever reached human ears. At such times even the water drawn out with buckets moans and wails as if in anguish.

The well is about 60 feet deep. A few years ago the land on which it is located was bought by a Mr. Watkins, who, not liking the sounds that came from the well, employed two men to fill it up. They shoveled dirt into the well two weeks, but it did not effect the depth of water perceptibly, and they threw up the contract.

From the measurements of the excavations they had made it was calculated that the well should have been filled up a little more than twice.

The water is very clear, with a bluish tint, and is fairly palatable. No other wells in the neighborhood show such pranks as are played by the "Singing Well."

Could Not Shoot.

A Hindu looks upon the slaughter of an animal with the same dread and horror with which he would witness the taking of a life of a human being. It would be well for some of the hunters from our own country to learn from such pagans a lesson in humanity. Rev. B. Fay Mills tells the story of a hunter who employed as a decoy for deer a peculiarly constructed whistle, which closely imitated the voice of a young fawn calling its mother.

With his rifle in hand ready for instant action, he was one day blowing his whistle, when suddenly a mother deer thrust her head out of the bushes and looked straight toward him. There she stood, trembling with fear, yet looking this way and that in search of the little one which she supposed to be in danger. The hunter said:

"As I looked into those eloquent eyes, anxiously glancing here and there with maternal fear, my heart melted. I could not shoot."

Young deer that have not been chased or fired at by hunters will frequently come very near to unarmed travelers. The writer, while driving along a country road in northern Maine, has had a deer walk just in advance of the horse for some distance; and it is well known that wild deer often come into pastures and feed with the cows. To take advantage of this confidence seems very near to murder.

Rats and Underground Wires.

Rats are playing havoc with the underground telephone and telegraph cables in St. Louis. They have discovered that the wires are covered with paraffined paper, and they rather like the taste. To satisfy their appetites, they must gnaw through the lead casing around the wires. It has happened in a number of cases that the rats in gnawing through the lead cables, got at the greatest paper, have bared the copper wires in such a manner as to make it impossible to establish communication over them. Every time this happens it costs the company whose wires are interrupted all the way from a few dollars to several hundred. The telephone men are trying to devise some means of stopping the depredations.

The People Who Work Best.

The people in all lines of duty who do the most work are the calmest, most unburied. Duties never wildly chase each other in their lives. One task never turns another out, nor ever compels hurried, imperfect doing. The calm spirit works methodically, doing one thing at a time well, and it, therefore, works swiftly, though never appearing to be in haste.

Spider Stops a Clock.

A spider that had woven a web around the pendulum, after infinite trouble and many failures that would have discouraged one less persevering, succeeded at last in stopping an old reliable clock at Nantucket.

Forged Autographs.

The trial of a German for swindling by the use of forged autographs of Martin Luther recently, brought out the fact that the ink used by Luther 350 years ago is so good that copies can still be taken from it.

Feet of Your Ears.

An English writer, who for fifteen years or more has been a student of criminal anthropology, says that large, voluminous ears are the most marked characteristics of the criminal.

English Words.

There are now over 250,000 words in the English language, acknowledged by the best authorities, or about 70,000 more than in the German, French, Spanish and Italian combined.

Wooden Legs.

Wooden legs, according to statisticians, are used by over 1,000,000 English-speaking men, and this accounts for the enormous trade in limbs of this kind.

The Giraffe's Hide.

For the hide of a full-grown giraffe, greatly sought after in Africa for whip and sandal making, the native hunters get from $15 to $25.

London Slums.

Two hundred thousand families, it has been calculated, are living in London on about $1 a week.

THE HUMAN BODY.

Many Odd Facts Which Are Not Generally Known.

Human beings are of all sizes, but the tall man is less common than the short; only one man in every 208 exceeds the height of six feet. For every foot of stature a man should weigh from twenty-six to twenty-eight pounds, a proportion that is not the lot of all in these hurrying, scurrying days.

An average-sized man weighs 140 pounds; a woman 125 pounds. Curiously enough, the mean weight and height of lunatics are below those of sane people. Another unexpected thing in this respect that a negro's skeleton weighs more than that of an Englishman.

The vitalizing power is the blood, a drop of which takes but twenty-two seconds to go the round of the body. There passes through the heart once in every three minutes an amount of this precious fluid equal to all that is contained in the body.

The mileage of the blood circulation reveals some astonishing and undreamed of truths. It is estimated that, assuming the average speed of the heart to be sixty-nine beats a minute, the blood travels 207 yards in sixty seconds; in other words, seven miles an hour, 168 a day, or 6,320 per year.

If a man of 84 could have one single blood corpuscle floating in his blood all his life, it would have traversed in that period no less than 5,150,808 miles.

The average weight of the brain of an adult male is three pounds eight ounces, of a female, two pounds four ounces. The woman's brain begins to decline in weight after the age of thirty, the man's not till ten years later. According to high authorities the nerves, with their branches and minute ramifications connecting with the brain, exceed 10,000,000 in number.

The palm of the hands and soles of the feet are composed of cushions of fat, in order that sudden jolts and violent blows may be successfully resisted, and no injury done to the muscles and bones underneath.

The muscles—of which the tongue monopolizes eleven—and bones of the human structure in combination are capable of more than 1,200 different motions.

The teaching of experience indicates that accidents are far more likely to occur to the right leg and arm than to the left. Further evidence of this fact is supplied by the makers of artificial limbs; they dispose of many more appendages to the right side of the body than to the other. Statistics show that in fifty-four cases out of a hundred the left leg is stronger than the right.

If a man could move his legs proportionally as fast as an ant, he would travel not far short of 800 miles an hour.

Seeing Bullets as They Fly.

"As every sportsman knows," said an enthusiastic hunter, "it is easy to see a rifle bullet in the air, and those fired from the new high-power guns are very curious to look at. Stand a dozen yards to one side of the mark and let a friend blaze away at any range with a small calibre weapon using smokeless powder, and you'll see a strange, bluish-white streak the instant the bullet strikes home. The streak is apparently a couple of inches wide and several feet long, and is more like a flash of light than anything else I can think of. With the old-fashioned Remington or Springfield carbine the bullet has the appearance of a long black rod, and I don't know why there should be such a difference in the optical illusion produced by the smaller calibre. I have heard some people deny that the bullet can be seen, but they are very much in error. It all depends on getting the right view point. A few feet either way will render the bullet invisible, but the right spot is soon found by experiment, and after that the thing is as plain as day."

New Use of Glass.

The latest use of glass is instead of gold as a material for stopping decayed teeth. It answers splendidly and is far less conspicuous than the yellow metal. Of course, it is not ordinary glass, but it is prepared by some new patent process, which renders it soft and malleable. Glass too is being extensively used for church bells. It can be toughened so that there is no risk of it cracking, and the tone is said to be beyond anything yet invented, perfect, soft and sonorous.

Opals Are Safe.

Opals will soon be considered lucky stones if it is found that they are burglar-proof, which looks as if it might be the case from the accounts given of a recent robbery in Spokane, Wash. The burglars there broke into a jewelry shop and took a quantity of jewelry, but left the most valuable stones, a number of opals, which they could have taken as easily as the cheaper and more telltale goods which they carried away.

Poor Field for Inventors.

The patent laws of Japan afford little protection to foreign manufacturers or inventors. A native may patent any trademark of a foreigner if the patent be taken out before the real owner has moved in the matter. Then the only course open to the owner is to buy from the native the right to use his own trademark in Japan.

"The Queen's Health."

Every night, in every ship in Her Majesty's Navy, the Queen's health is drunk by the officers of the vessel; but is a curious fact that is always drunk sitting, the officers never rising, as is usual on land.

Frightening Wolves in Norway.

It is believed in Norway that wolves are frightened away by telegraph poles. On one occasion a village voted money to help in the construction of a line passing near them for this reason alone.

Ancient Custom.

In ancient times to eat salt with a man was held by most people to form a sacred tie of brotherhood. This custom still holds among Orientals.

Quick Counting.

A machine has just been completed that will count and bind in packages 500,000 postal cards in ten hours.

BIRDS SHY OF WINDSTORMS.

Tactics They Pursue to Escape Impending Danger.

The power of the winds is dreaded by almost all ordinary birds, and assessed by knowledge seems to be possessed by them that if they once surrender to the force of the winds unknown dangers will have to be faced. Consequently, when a high storm prevails, all birds seek shelter of some kind. The strong-winged sea birds are the last to take flight at the approaching hurricane, but even they will finally try to escape its fury beneath the shelter of some cliff or sand dune. During tremendous windstorms birds may sometimes be seen flying overhead at a great altitude. When this phenomenon is observed it may be taken for granted that the upper atmosphere is comparatively quiet and that the disturbance is confined chiefly to the lower regions. Many sea birds seek the upper air of common quietness during tropical hurricanes.

When a heavy wind or gale springs up the gulls, terns and petrels will fly back and forth over the water's surface, rising and falling, and uttering their peculiar cries of warning. If the storm extends too high up they will drift gradually with the wind or fly away to the edge of the hurricane. Very often they get caught unexpectedly in the gales of wind and find themselves in a dangerous position. Then they struggle with might and main against the powers of the air currents. Knowing that danger and death face them if they once come under the dominion of the wind, they use all the strength and tactics they are capable of to combat the elements. A young herring gull, a petrel or a tern thus surprised will beat up against the wind with powerful flight. It will rise high in the air, facing the gale and making a little progress forward as well as upward. Above three-quarters of a mile it will suddenly descend with rapid flight toward one side of the storm-swept path, but falling off at the time in the direction of the blowing wind. Once more it will sweep around and face the storm, ascending heavenward and striking desperately out toward the direction of the storm.

Non-Freezing Water Pipes.

The Germans, who are so far ahead of many nations in a certain class of technical skill, have incorporated into their plumbing practice a non-freezing water pipe, which will save an incalculable amount of annoyance and property in a single winter. The purpose of the invention is not only to prevent the water from being frozen, but to provide an opportunity for its expansion by cold. Into the iron pipe, as far as it is above the ground, there is inserted a second narrower pipe of thin elastic substance, such, for instance, as rubber. This insertion remains unaffected by the ordinary pressure; but if the water should be frozen by extreme cold the elastic insertion is compressed so much as the volume of water is increased by the freezing. With the coming of the thaw the insertion expands again to its original circumference. The object of the iron or lead around the insertion is to prevent an unpleasant taste or odor being imparted to the water. It is said that the British navy regulations allow one week off, Austria is endeavoring to mitigate the hardship of service on these boats, and life on one built for the Austrian navy, and tried on the Thames recently, was demonstrated to be pleasanter than on those of the English navy.

Life on a Torpedo Boat.

So injurious is life on a torpedo boat that a year's continuous service will mentally and physically incapacitate a man. This assertion is made on the authority of Lord Charles Beresford, but that the strain on any one serving on these crafts is very great is shown by the fact that to one month's service the British naval regulations allow one week off. Austria is endeavoring to mitigate the hardship of service on these boats, and life on one built for the Austrian navy, and tried on the Thames recently, was demonstrated to be pleasanter than on those of the English navy.

Just Like Other People.

Though the German emperor has an annual income of about three-quarters of a million sterling, the empress, who dresses "like a good-class woman," is most economical. The children's clothes are repaired in the workroom, where her own wardrobe is mended. When the clothes are outgrown they are cut up for the smaller members of the family, which can very well be done, seeing that six out of the seven children are boys.

All Muscle.

The elephant has more muscles in its trunk than any other creature possesses in its whole body, the number being, according to Cuvier, not fewer than 40,000 while in the whole of his body man can only boast of 527. This is why the elephant's trunk is so exceedingly strong, and at the same time so extremely delicate in its movements.

Activity of Baby Crocodiles.

The moment a young crocodile breaks its shell it is to all intents and purposes as active as it is at any time during its life. It will make straight for the water, even if it be out of sight and a good distance off, and it will pursue its prey with eagerness and agility during the first hour of its free existence.

Cutting of Diamonds.

Diamonds are cut in three different forms—the rose, the brilliant, and the table, of which the second is the prettiest. It is a double pyramid of cone, of which the top is cut off to form a large plane, and at the bottom directly opposite to a small plane.

PILOTS ON THE RIO GRANDE.

Texans Objected to Having

Arms Scratched With

Vaccine Virus.

RANGERS CALLED OUT.

Trouble Grew Out of Discovery by

Smart Doctor That Smallpox

Was Across the River.

Wool Warehouse in Laredo Converted

Into a Pest House and Cotton Mill Detention Hospital—Relatives Called and
Were Not Allowed to See Patients—
Then a Mix-up Occurred.

Your native Texan objects to bloodletting in any but the conventional way. It is all right and proper to bleed a man with a six-shooter bullet or a bowie knife on due provocation. That is according to State etiquette—or to Mr. Hoyle, as they say. But when a short-horn doctor from the effete East comes to the Rio Grande loaded down with quills, claims the right to enter your jail without knocking, and then proceeds to tear a piece of hide off your arm just because he doesn't like your looks or your liver—when these things happen, then there's sure to be a little unpleasantness and a funeral or two. Laredo has passed through an experience of this sort, and it required the State Rangers and a company of the Tenth United States cavalry to restore order. The funerals took place in the fall, and the wounded are doing as well as could be expected.

It all grew out of the discovery by a young doctor that there was smallpox across the river, in Mexico. He hadn't been here long, and couldn't be expected to know that every well-regulated Mexican family on the frontier has its routine that must be lived up to; that it must have its smallpox in the spring, just as it must have its bull fights and fiestas in the fall, and its dances and fandangos and throat-cuttings in the so-called winter months. He didn't know these things, so he notified the Texas State Health Board of his discovery and had quarantine regulations put in force. That was the first sign of trouble. Gentlemen who had been dealing cards on this side and sleeping in Mexico found their pleasures and profits interfered with, and objected loudly to inspection. Then some joker tipped that troublesome doctor off to the fact that there was a case or two of the disease right in Laredo. Made him think it was something new and extraordinary. Then the doctor got down to business in real earnest. An old wool warehouse was seized and converted into a pesthouse. It is in the suburbs, occupies a full block and is surrounded by a high board fence.
On the other side of town a building put up for a cotton mill was turned into a detention hospital for suspects, and one of the first persons taken there was the joker who had stirred up the trouble on this side. The first cases were taken to the pesthouse, and then the trouble became general. The relatives of those confined called at the pesthouse to see them, and were refused admittance. This was an undreamed-of outrage, and a section of the board fence was promptly torn down.
That called the Mayor into the game, and he put the Sheriff in the field to guard the premises, and the Sheriff asked help from the Rangers.

Meantime the doctor had communicated again with the State Board of Health and had received instructions to make a house-to-house inspection of the town and scrape the arms of all persons who seemed in need of that sort of irritation. He secured five assistants and started out to have some fun. He had it. When the virus began to "take" the town got sore on the doctor and his assistants, and laid for him with clubs. But the doctor had another card up his sleeve. He ordered the removal of the obstreperous to the detention hospital.

Then the circus began in earnest, and gun-play became frequent. A posse went the rounds with the ambulance in which suspects were removed, and on the second trip the assistant city marshal was shot down. Then the Rangers were called away from that board fence to guard the ambulance. That was an invitation to scrap that no native Texan could ignore, and so formidable were the preparations made to wipe out the Rangers that the Mayor decided to suspend operations in order to prevent a massacre.

But there was no let-up on the part of that doctor. He kept after the State Board of Health, and finally, through the instrumentality of that body Uncle Sam sat into the game. He drew a handful of spades and played his Tenth cavalry to beat everything in sight. The ambulance was sent out again with an escort of troopers and Rangers. They were fired upon, and the captain of the Rangers fell. Then the troopers let go, and the mob scattered—those of them that were able to get away. One of the leaders of the mob was killed.

Having had its little bit of excitement and expressed its opinion of the proceedings, the town has now quieted down.

TRICKS PLAYED ON BANKERS

Pinkerton Unveils Sharp Practices in Selling Burglar-Proof Devices.

"One of the things most eagerly sought after by the bankers," said William A. Pinkerton, "is protection for their funds, and this desire often makes them easy prey for slick confidence men. I don't mean the ordinary 'con' sharp, for any up-to-date banker can guard against their wiles. But there is a class of smooth talkers who do business with bankers in an apparently legitimate manner and get the cash every time without taking any risk. These are the chaps who have something to sell in the way of burglar-proof or fire-proof devices. Many of the dealers and agents are reputable and straight-forward in their business, but there are black sheep in all lines of trade, and the banker does not always get the kind of protection he thinks he has purchased. After he has been bamboozled a few times he becomes suspicious even of those who are honest and able to furnish him receptacles which will give protection against the ingenious burglar who has been so much in evidence lately.

"For instance, when a banker, after such investigation, does finally pay a good price for a first-class safe, and begins to rest easy, along comes a new schemer, who in after his dollars, and assures him that his safe is absolutely worthless; that any burglar can, by the use of the electric current, burn a hole any desired size, into his safe in a few minutes and easily extract its contents. But if the banker will buy an electric alarm system, which this ready exaggerator has to sell, then any old box can be made burglar-proof. No safe has ever yet been robbed by the use of the electric current. It is possibly impracticable for such a trick to be performed, and has been proven so upon at least two occasions by electrical experts. While it is true that any metal can be pierced or melted rapidly with electricity under certain favorable conditions, yet it is impossible for a bank burglar to secure the required facilities.

"The method by which some bankers have been scared into purchasing electric alarm systems—which sound gongs in the streets, often give false alarms, and can be defeated—is a 'fake' pure and simple. Some bankers have been eye-witnesses in Chicago to the process of burning holes into bank safes.
This work is done in a basement. In one room the banker

POLECAT HOSPITALITY.

The U. S. Cruiser New Orleans, is probably as fine a craft as bears the insignia of the majesty and power of this government. Certainly the service performed by its gallant captain and brave crew during very recent has won for them unstinted praise wherever they have gone. They are the true and tried defenders of the nation who left their homes and took chances for life and honor in raging seas and elemental storms amid the thick hail of deadly missiles in order to demonstrate the manhood and dignity of the American people.

Genuine hospitality has received them in many places and they have been treated as Americans and heroes. It remained however for the people of the city after which the splendid cruiser was named to insult the flag and seek to humiliate the brave soldiers.

The cruiser touched at New Orleans for the purpose of receiving a silver service and bell in acknowledgement of its name. In addition preparations were made to provide feasts and other entertainment for the captain and crew, when it became known that the crew contained quite a goodly number of colored sailors, this fact set the noble and truly hospitable and patriotic people of New Orleans to tongue wagging and protesting. They were willing to ride in the same carriages, suckle at the same breast, drink from the same bottle sleep in the same bed, eat the same food with the colored people; but to live in a city where brave colored sailors are to be entertained along with their captain and white mates, at a public hall, in a public manner was more than the mudsill aristocracy and apeing would-bes could stand. As a consequence Captain Longnecker was waited upon and informed that the patriotic and truly American people of New Orleans would in no wise consent to permit the colored sailors to eat in the same apartment with the whites, but that they must be separated from the whites, if the show was to proceed and the animals to be fed. Of course the charitable creoles thought their demand was modest and truly noble and patriotic and expected ready acquiescence on the part of the captain. But the captain did not propose to separate his men. They had served the government bravely and effectively as true Americans. They had fought together, eaten together, prayed together and had agreed to die together if need be in defense of right, justice and humanity. The captain found them black and white together and would not now yield to the senseless demands of land-lubbers whose only ground of objection was that of a foolish, mean and un-American provincialism more becoming Patagonians than civilized people. Captain Longnecker said as all truly brave and just men would have said that "no such discrimination could be drawn in the Navy and that the crew would have to be taken as it came." We thank Capt. Longnecker for his manliness. The colored people as a class have no special desire to eat with white folks, especially those who are lynching, murdering and robbing them day after day. But they do think it but fair and decent that they be created as brave soldiers and sailors and not as inferior beings and outcasts at public demonstrations.

RARA AVIS.

The so-called negro problem or more properly speaking the southern problem, scientifically considered, is probably the most important, complex and interesting phase of the vast domain of sociology. Moreover, involving as it does the life liberty property and prospects of over ten millions of human beings who were born here and whose ancestors have contributed brawn, valor wealth and blood toward founding, protecting and maintaining American institutions the problem is manifestly a very serious one. The broadest and best minds and truest hearts among the whites are seriously at work striving to ascertain the cause and discover and apply a remedy which will vindicate the doctrine of christianity and the brotherhood of man. And this noble work is joined by a few of our colored ministers of the gospel who are producing good results in favor of our race. The bulk of our ministers have done but little else than to make matters worse by skating around the surface of the subject without ever reaching the core, by indifference, or by talking like poll parrots upon occasions when they are expected to talk sense. An instance of this may be seen in a report of the remarks made by a colored minister, named Dillard before the Presbyterian assembly which met this week at Minneapolis, Minn. Many important questions were discussed, among which was that of the condition of the freedmen, or the race question. Rev. Dillard, the report says, was cheered and as the report published a part of the speech, we suppose that it was that part which elicited the applause. It runs as follows:

"There are plenty of men in the South who have more lung power than brain power. With many of them negro-ology is greater than theology. Among some of them perspiration is more noticeable than inspiration." This disgusting rot was delivered concerning the colored people and before a body of ministers deeply interested in the cause of the uplifting of manhood and at a time when a colored man could have and was expected to have thrown some light upon actual condition and offered some remedy for the relief of oppressed brethren. But verily "fools rush in where angels dare not tread" and this Rev. Dillard offers another living proof of the forcefulness of the adage. In the presence of a body of men whose lives are dedicated to the grand and noble work of regenerating mankind and placing them upon the high level of enlightened and christian manhood and womanhood we have the spectacle of a colored man whose duty it is to defend the honor and promote the best interests of the race, indulging in buffoonery and smartisms and emphasizing the false impressions which the whites have of our real condition, efforts, hopes and aspirations. It is indeed mortifying and discouraging to race loving and striving colored preachers to be thus misrepresented. How differently would Dr. Grimke have handled the problem and spoken in our defense. The colored ministry is in the main doing great work in the amelioration of conditions as they effect our people, but this act at Minneapolis shows that we are not sufficiently careful how we select men to represent our interests in the councils of people whose aim and purpose are to assert in the truth and deal with it intelligently and religiously.

IT IS TRUE.

From the Augusta Ga. Union.

Editor Chase of the Washington, (D. C.) Bee, says: "E. M. Hewlett is the most manly negro before the District bar." Editor Chase is also a lawyer at that bar and is presumed to know what he is talking about.

THE WHITE MAN'S JUBILEE.

The Peace Jubilee, otherwise, to be handed down to posterity as the white man's farce in which the butchers, bakers and candlestick makers occupied a prominent space in the line of march. Why this is called a peace jubilee, when Aguinaldo, the Filipino, is still fighting for his independence. A peace jubilee in which the negro was ignored and discriminated against on account of his color, is not only farcical but a disgrace to American civilization. The letter of Justice E. M. Hewlett is an evidence of the demagoguery of the committee that had this matter in charge. The Bee expected no more hence it is not surprised. Any old thing was better than the most refined and educated negro in the estimation of those who had it in charge. It was far from being a representative affair, because outside of Dr. A. P. Fardon there was not a representative man connected with it and how he got mixed up with such small potatoes, is beyond the conception of the Bee.

JOHN BERRY TO HANG.

John Berry, the fifteen year old colored boy who killed Miss Clarke near Marlboro, March 19th, was tried and convicted in Baltimore last Monday, verdict and sentenced to be hung, being given on Tuesday. Here is a lesson to our intelligent Maryland negroes who seem indifferent to damaging customs held over them. The negro reform school is a place where they send little children who have no parents or home, from the age of five years old up. Here they are kept in prison and restraint to be hired out as servants and slaves all over the state to any white person who want a servant. This was John Berry's case, neglected when a babe by his white father and black mamma in Frederick City, his unnatural grandmother sent him to the reform school without proceedings at court, at seven years of age because he spent a few pennies of her's. He was sent there in 1891 and hired out in 1897 as a servant to the Clarkes, one whom he killed to effect his freedom, a thing he had not tasted since he was a child of seven. Is this what our reform schools are for? Has Maryland negroes any stamina to ask the humane Maryland white people to change this evil? Miss Clarke's death is directly to the evils of the Maryland convict system that permits taking a child and in place of a parent care given him the horrors of a prison life which will make any child desperate and unbalance when grown up. Berry says he wanted to get away and knew he had to get rid of them. Of course he wanted to get away from prison and of course his lack of instruction led him to think he must kill them. He has never had one colored person to come and see him since his first imprisonment. He plead hard to have the trial wait till Dr. Johnson should arrive from Washington to defend him. After the trial he declared that if he had been defended by the colored lawyer he would have had a lighter sentence. Where are we drifting?

M. W. G. Masters, D. C.

The 8th Annual Communication of the St. John's G. Lodge of F. & A. A. Y. Masons of New Jersey, closed its session April 20th with a grand reception to the N. G. Master, Captain W. D. Matthews 33° of Leavenworth, Kan. at Koschisto Hall, 10th and Kaigha avenue, where public installations were held followed by the reception, the house was crowded. Capt. Matthews then delivered an instructive address upon the organ of Freemasonry in this country among colored men. The Grand lodge elected Rev. G. V. Peterson of Mechamville, grand master and G. Williams, grand secretary assistant S. J. Moore, one of the important points of the session was the establishment of a charity fund to be used to secure a house for aged and infirm brethren, their widows and orphans. The condition of the craft in New Jersey is good. The National Grand Lodge has secured a plot upon which will be erected a National Home for the same purpose.

MASONIC.

From Rising Sun, Ind. Record.

The colored Masons of this city and State met in their hall, in Rising Sun, Ind., and held a Masonic Convention on the 30th day of March, 1899, and organized and established a Grand Lodge to be known as the Most Worshipful Prince Edwin Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Ancient York Masons, colored in and for the State of Indiana, and jurisdiction under the National Grand Lodge of F. & A. A. Y. Masons (N. Compact) of the United States of North America.

The Subordinate Lodges and members comprising the above named Grand Lodge have heretofore been working under the faction of Colored Masons, who had been expelled from the National Grand Lodge of F. & A. A. York Masons, which are the legitimate Masons (colored) of the Prince Hall origin, in the United States, who received a warrant in 1784 from Thos. Howard, Earl of Effingham, Lord Howard acting Grand Master under the authority of His Royal Highness Henry Frederick, Duke of Cumberland, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England. Finding out that they had been deceived and wronged out of their money by the State Rights so-called Masons, they called a Convention and petitioned the Most Worshipful National Grand Lodge of the United States of North America to come and heal and set them right.

The prayer of the petitioners was granted and Capt. W. D. Matthews of Leavenworth, Kansas, who is the M. W. National Grand Master of all legitimate Masons (colored) of the U. S. N. A., arrived here on the 27th of March 1899 and healed all petitioners of the Convention; and according to the precedent laid down by Grand Master Henry in 1733, when he organized St. John Grand Lodge in Boston, Mass., he, Capt. W. D. Matthews National Grand Master, formed the members of the Convention into a M. W. Grand Lodge by the name of the M. W. Prince Edwin Grand Lodge of F. & A. A. York Masons (colored) of the State of Indiana, under National Compact Grand Lodge of F. & A. A. Y. M. of the U. S. of N. A., with the following officers:

Recorder of the names of the Grand Officer of the M. W. Prince Edwin Grand Lodge of F. & A. A. Y. M. (N. Compact) for the State of Ind.: Daniel E. Smith, M. W. G. M. John Green, R. W. D. G. M. G. C. Richard Weaver, R. W. S. G. S. John Hugh, R. W. J. G. S. William H. Jacks, R. W. G. L.

The ladies of the Master Masons—wives, daughters, sisters, mothers—were then formed into a Ladies' Court of Master Masons' Daughters, to be known as Queen of Sheba Court No. 1 of M. D. P. K. and H. of J. with the following officers and members: Mrs. Laura F. Smith, M. A. A. Onevia L. Smith, Secretary. Mattie Clure, I. G. Keeper. Mrs. Mollie Evans, Ass't Secy. "Lucy Castleman, O. G. William Green, Guard to Treasurer. Clarence Evans. Albert Edwards. Thadus L. Evans. Edward Mitchell. John L. Coleman. Maria Edwards.

The Grand Lodge and Ladies' Court being organized and consecrated in ample form, according to the ancient usages and customs of the Royal Craftmen in all ages and among all nations throughout the known world, on the evening of April 1st, 1899, the officers of both orders and the members formed a procession at their hall and marched to Shiloh Baptist Church, where a large assembly of citizens had gathered to witness the installation ceremonies, which were conducted in ample form by Capt. W. D. Matthews, N. G. M., assisted by Rev. Mr. Clements, R. W. D. G. M. of Ohio. The brother and sisters are all much pleased with the change from the States Rights Masonry to the Legitimate under the National Grand Lodge, Prince Hall origin (Compact). Prince Edwin Hall Grand Lodge is composed of some of the best and most intelligent men and women (colored) of the State of Indiana.

Capt. Matthews expressed himself as well pleased with the appearance of the officers of the new Grand Lodge and all the craftsmen, and with the officers and members of the Ladies' Court.

Capt. Matthews left on the 2d of April on the B. & O. Railroad for Washington, D. C., where he will visit the M. W. Eureka Grand Lodge. From there he goes to Camden, N. J., to the M. W. St. John Grand Lodge.

BEAR AGAINST MAN.

An Awful Grapple in Deadfall Pit in Washington.

It is doubtful if more vicious mementos were ever carried about in the pocket of a man than those in the possession of Ambrose Larsen, of Sehome Wash.

Larsen's narrative of the incidents leading to his wounding by a brown bear and the securing of four tusks as mementos is as follows:

"I have pre-empted on a quarter section of land lying about eight miles back of Sehome. There I have been living with my family for the last six years, improving the place, raising some stock and cutting shingle-bolts. In the latter part of last September two of my pigs were killed by bears. I hunted and waited up for nights for the bears, but could not meet them. Then I built a deadfall, placing it directly in the only trail the marauders could reach the pigpen by. On visiting the trap, one day, I found an immense brown bear in it, the largest I have ever seen during a lifetime spent in the woods. The log of the trap had fallen across its haunches and broken its back. The animal was alive, however and full of fight. I put two bullets from my Winchester into its head, and the bear turned over as if dead.

"I then climbed down into the pit to see the best means of getting to work at skinning the animal. In doing this it was necessary for me to pass my right arm under the bear's head. No sooner had my hand touched his head than, with a snap there was no avoiding, he raised and caught me by the right arm, just above the elbow, sinking his tusks deep into the bone.

At the same time he sent his claws into the leg of my right boot. Fortunately, I had brought my Winchester into the pit with me, and had leaned it against the side, as it happened, within reach of my left hand. The bear had me securely pinioned, and I could feel his tusks crunching on the bone of my arm. What agony was yours can only imagine; I cannot describe it. Getting the rifle stock between my knees, I managed to work the loading lever with my left hand, and, placing the muzzle of the gun fairly into the bear's right eye, fired. The shot sent the big brute into its dying throes. Like a vise its jaws settled down on my already crushed arm, until it seemed that flesh and bone must sunder, and the weight of the bear's head and shoulders would tear the arm away.

"However, endurance could not stand up under a strain long. Getting another cartridge into the rifle by the same tactics as before, I rammed the barrel of the gun alongside this, where a space showed between my shirt sleeve and the bear's tongue." (Larsen here showed the tusk with the mark of the rifle barrel upon it), "and, shoving the weapon as far down the brute's throat as my falling strength would allow, fired.

"The bear was undoubtedly already dead, but only a slight relaxation of its jaws followed the second shot. I could not free my arm. The hold of the claw on my boot, however, relaxed. With this advantage gained I dropped to my knees, and, using the rifle barrel as a pry, forced the animal's jaws open. God only knows the awful agony I endured during that trying operation, but at last I managed to free myself. With my relief my grit gave out, and I fainted. The next I knew my wife and a neighboring rancher were beside me in the pit, endeavoring to stanch the bleeding from my arm. My wife had become alarmed at my long absence, and, knowing my errand when I left in the morning, had made her way to the bear deadfall. Unable, on account of her feeble strength, to raise me from the pit, she had walked three miles to the next cabin adjoining ours to procure the neighbor's assistance.

"I was taken to Fairhaven and thence to Victoria. Everything has been done that the surgeons of the northwest are capable of, and that is probably all that medical science can attain, for I have had good doctors. The crunched bone of my arm will not knit or form again. It continues to work out in small pieces. Every time one of these fragments of bone comes to the skin it forms an ulcer or boil in its efforts to free itself. The result is my arm, where the bear's tusks penetrated, is a mass of useless flesh. The pain comes from it constantly. I had decided to undergo an amputation when a friend told me of a surgeon in San Francisco who had performed several difficult operations in cutting away and piecing out of diseased bone matter, and I am going to him as a last hope. If he cannot help me the arm must come off, for I cannot stand this awful constant pain much longer."

Regarding Smallpox.

It has been found that smallpox patients are least marked when kept in rooms darkened with red curtains. Sunlight passing through a red medium loses its chemical power. It thus prevents smallpox taking of the new form. One of the sights of the new Exhibition will be microbes placed under prismatic rays. We shall see how the chemical rays—violet, etc.—stimulate or tickle them to death. The violent rays are the cause of sunstroke though the red rays have so far been blamed. They become dangerous only in the process. Red is heating but calming. Is this why children who are restless, feverish beings are so fond of that color and of pink? The Great Mogul knew what he was doing when he went about under the shade of a big red umbrella.

We Would Find Out in Time.

The overturned coaches lay at the foot of the embankment, where they had rolled when the train left the track. The wrecking train had arrived, the crew had gone to work, and the wounded had all been cared for. "Will you please tell me your personal experience in the accident?" asked a reporter, whipping out his notebook.

"You will read about them, sir," replied the solemn looking passenger with a slightly foreign accent, whom he had addressed, "in the book I shall certainly publish about this country."

The recitations of Miss Shimm and Mr. Guy and the rendition by the Mandolin club were skillful and highly entertaining. The proceeds which were handsome are to be devoted to kindergarten work. WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

THE PEACE JUBILEE—THE NEGRO NOT WANTED.—A MANLY LETTER.

The BEE has all along contended that the negro was not wanted in the Peace Jubilee. The executive committee was composed of white men entirely and the few committees on which the negro was placed didn't amount to much. The few who were appointed on the several committees were placed in such positions that it didn't count for anything. The subterfuge to which some of the managers resorted can be better told in the letter of Justice E. M. Hewlett as follows:

Washington, D. C. 20 May 1899
E. M. Hewlett, Esq.,
Dear Sir:

Your check for three dollars and photograph are herewith respectfully returned as they were received too late to be sent to New York, for half-toning and returned here in time for insertion.

Yours truly,
George T. Parker, per J.

Washington, D. C. May 22nd 1899.
Mr. George T. Parker,
Dear Sir:

I sent my photograph and a check for three dollars, on receipt of your card, I am not surprised at its return, with the statement that it was received too late for the official program, since I have learned that no other colored member of the committee received a card requesting the same. It was sent on the 10th, the day after I received your card and you have been until the 20th of the month finding out that it was too late. I sent it merely to aid the committee. I am now satisfied that it was inadvertently sent to me, but I want you to know that I know that the photo was returned, not because you received them too late, but because you saw from the photo that I was a colored man. I received a request a couple of days ago to make a contribution toward the jubilee and I intended to send my check this morning for $100 but I fear that when you find out that the money is from a colored man, you may be put to the trouble of returning the check, so I will spare that trouble by keeping my money. Please inform Mr. Nailor who asked for the contribution.

Yours truly,
E. M. Hewlett.

JUBILEE NOTES.

It was a white man's affair.

The negro saw his place, a hewer of wood and drawer of water.

The design representing a united South with the blue and gray clapping hands was received with cold comfort.

The third day was notoriously notable for the absence of the negro except in a menial capacity.

The wars of 61-65 and 98 saw the negro weighed in the balances and found wanting.

The committee thought it wise to invite the negro, but his presence was not needed.

The negro is a being who is despised for no cause whatever.

The designs in the parade were out of date.

C. H. J. TAYLOR—DEAD

Ex-Recorder of Deeds, C. H. J. Taylor died in Atlanta, Ga., Thursday afternoon Mr. Taylor was a well known and astute colored democratic politician.

He was well known in this city and was regarded as Mr. Cleveland's pet negro democrat. The great fight between Mr. Taylor and the BEE President Cleveland and the entire democratic administration took a hand in defense of Taylor with the assistance of the courts, aided by the republican judges and republican preselected office resulted in the BEE's temporary defeat. The principal actors against the BEE in that great fight a either dead or in the penitentiary. Right is bound to prevail. Let Taylor rest in peace. He made many a wise man a fool.

After this the candidate is said to be running for the "dickie," and this period lasts for five days—from Friday to the following Wednesday. To the end of his life the candidate will usually associate this period of his college career with the blackest variety of mourning colors. During this time the man who is "running" must do everything he is bidden to do by any member of the society.

The sole object of each member of the society during this period to the initiate appears to be to render his life as much of a burden as possible.

This pleasing information was also imparted to the astonished audience at the top of his voice. He was accommodated by the special policeman in about five seconds, and the audience then gradually woke up to the fact that they had witnessed part of a "dickie" man's initiation.

"I found a five dollar bill on the floor of our office to-day," said the young man who is employed by a Wall street broker.

"You are in luck," replied his friend. "Well, I don't know whether I am or not. You see, I found out from one of the other clerks that the boss had left the bill there purposely."

"Then of course you will have to give it back to him."

THE D. K. E. SOCIETY.

New Members of Harvard's "Dickey" Fraternity Initiate the New Recruits.

Spencer Borden, Jr., of Fall River, a member of the Harvard class of '94, recently received a letter from Madagascar from a personal friend, a Columbia man of the class of '93, which contains the nucleus of the queerest of queer stories. A man popular with the English speaking residents there, as the letter said, had died suddenly without revealing his real identity. He had gone by what he did not deny to be an assumed name, but was very evidently a man of refinement and education.

When the body was being prepared for the grave, six peculiar marks, or rather scars, were found on his left shoulder. These letters were said by the writer of the letter to indicate membership in the famous D. K. E. (Dickey) Society of Harvard, prior to the fifth ten initiated in 1894. No other marks or means of identification were found, and the identity of the stranger in a strange land, who had died so far away from America and "Fair Harvard" may always remain a secret.

The D. K. E.—or, as it is more universally known, the "Dickey"—Society of Harvard, whose peculiar marks were found on the shoulder of the deceased, is perhaps the most celebrated, as well as one of the most exclusive societies in any American university to-day.

The D. K. E. (Delta Kappa Epsilon) of Harvard is managed by members of the sophomore class. The method of selection of members is this: Toward the end of each scholastic year the sophomore members of the society select men from the freshmen class to be members of the "Dickey."

These are called the "First Ten," and to be thus chosen is considered the highest mark of distinction that a Harvard man can attain during his entire college course. This first ten are supposed to represent the very flower and elite of some five hundred students, and to represent the most "ultra exclusive" in the entire freshman class. The selection of each one must be unanimous, and "scrubs," "digs" and "muckers" are not in the hunt for a minute.

These "First Ten" select at the beginning of the sophomore year a second ten, and the twenty thus chosen are a third ten, and so on until forty members of the sophomore class are included in the society. These sophomores manage the affairs of the society and pay the charges. The members of the upper classes, however, continue to participate in the initiations and other festivities.

When a man has been selected for the D. K. E. he is not notified by letter of his election, but is called upon in the night time—by preference, from midnight up to 3 a. m.—by a committee of the whole society.

A line is formed from his room to the street, or yard, as the case may be, and the candidate is taken out of his warm bed and passed along this line, frequently one hundred and fifty men in length, until he reaches the ground. This little process is accompanied by a period of continuous punching and all-round mauling which usually results in the victim reaching the end of the line in a state of total nakedness.

His efforts to hide his nakedness with the scraps of whatever night clothes he may have worn before his visitors called are usually both embarrassing and pathetic.

After this the candidate is said to be running for the "dickie," and this period lasts for five days—from Friday to the following Wednesday. To the end of his life the candidate will usually associate this period of his college career with the blackest variety of mourning colors. During this time the man who is "running" must do everything he is bidden to do by any member of the society.

The sole object of each member of the society during this period to the initiate appears to be to render his life as much of a burden as possible.

The man who can think up the strangest and most fiendish task to impose upon the victim is looked upon with envy by the other members of the D. K. E.

During the appearance of "Jack and the Beanstalk" at the Boston Museum a man seated in the front row of the first balcony arose during the middle of the first act and threw open his coat, which he had hitherto worn tightly buttoned across his chest. Across his shirt front, in black letters two inches long, was written: "I am an idiot; put me out."

THE COLORED RACE IN AMERICA.

ISSUED BY THE HOWARD ASSOCIATION,
LONDON, 1899.

During the past year, the Howard Association has, on various occasions, received from those Southern States very grievous accounts of cruelties inflicted on the colored race, and in particular, in the convict camps and chain gangs, where a shocking condition of affairs exists.

THE CONVICT CAMPS AND CHAINGANGS

There are comparatively very few prison buildings in the South. Offenders are chiefly leased out, for open air work, to contractors or bidders, who pay their labor, so much a head, to the state or county, and then become absolute masters of such prisoners, so that the taxpayer is entirely relieved from the burden of criminals, who actually become a source of large revenue to the state and to individuals. This may, at first sight, seem to be a great advance upon the general systems of the North and of Europe, which are so costly to the community. But in reality the lease system produces the most terrible sufferings and fatalities to many thousands annually.

A REVIVAL OF SLAVERY.

It is practically, a revival of slavery, and on a very extensive scale. In Florida, public sales of convicts (most of whom are negroes) occasionally take place, when they are sold by auction to the highest bidder, for various periods, up to four years. Usually the sentences in the South (on colored people), even for minor offences, such as stealing eggs, are for very long periods.

There are several classes of leased convicts. Firstly, those under the immediate supervision of the state, in camps, or farms, corresponding somewhat to British convict establishments. These, though open to grave objection are comparatively free from the gross evils, and have, of late years, undergone considerable improvement in several of the states. Secondly, there are the county camps, which are worse. And, lastly, and worst of all, there are the numerous gangs farmed out to private sub-contractors, or bidders, who, in many cases, "sweat" their victims to death by excessive labor, wretched food, brutal violence and the grossest neglect of sanitary requirements. And of course, religious and moral obligations are utterly ignored in most instances.

In the best prisons of the Northern States, as in New York (at Elmira), Massachusetts, (at Concord Junction and Sherborne), Illinois, (at Joliet and Pontiac), Ohio, (at Columbus), Minnesota, (at Stillwater), and in Pennsylvania, Michigan, Rhode Island and other states, the reformation of the prisoner is, at least, earnestly attempted, and often successfully achieved. But in southern camps and chain gangs it is the very reverse.

"INFERNOS"

The "captains" employed by the sub-contractors are often of the class depicted in "Les Misérables" in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Their conduct to the female convict is indescribable. A large number of illegitimate births take place in these camps. The wretched children born in them are, in some instances, permanently retained as slaves. And the breeding of such has become an avowed purpose, at least in one state. Woe to the women or girls who are sent to such camps! Their life is, and must be, an inferno. Men and women frequently run away and are then chased with bloodhounds and guns; those killed being sometimes registered as "escaped."

The colored population furnishes about nine-tenths of the southern convicts, and it is reliably stated that a considerable portion of them are either quite innocent or are punished by long sentences for the most trifling offences, and frequently, on merely trump-up charges. It is to the interest of the local officials and contractors that the number of convicts should be as large as possible and their detention as prolonged as it can be made.

CHILDREN IN THE CHAIN GANGS

A very sad feature in these chain gangs is the number of young children sent to them. A leading philanthropist of Baltimore, Mr. C. S. Griffith, president of the Maryland Society for the Protection of Children, was pained to find in the gangs so many children from nine years of age and upwards! In one of the better class of chain gangs, in North Carolina, he found 55 persons, including three women and a boy of 11 years of age. And he says: "These men women and boys, all sleep under a tent 70 by 24 feet." This promiscuous and most demoralizing association of the various ages and sexes, by day and night, is the usual feature of the private camps, and sometimes, even of the state establishments.

Judge Chandler of Georgia, says: "My experience is that when a boy is sent to the chain gang, he is ruined." Judge Berry of Atlanta, says: "I have seen too many cases where boys have been ruined by being sent to the chain gangs." Then what must they be for girls?

BRUTAL "CAPTAINS."

Fearful brutalities are perpetrated by these "captains" in the lonely, remote places where many of the gangs are located, as in forests and mines. Sometimes convicts have been flayed alive! On one prisoner's corpse forty injuries were found. He had been literally beaten to pieces. Another had been disgustingly dismembered by kicks, and there was a great hole gaping in his side. A young white girl of seventeen years, after being repeatedly outraged by the officers of the camp, fled to the woods. She was overtaken by bloodhounds, her clothes stripped off, and she was then flogged in the presence of jeering men. Another poor girl, similar treated, gave birth to a child, but both mother and offspring were speedily relieved by death. Women and girls are habitually subjected to the grossest indecencies and exposures. In one camp was found a woman who had had seven children whilst there, and another had had six there. And such cases are legion!

Christian America sends hundreds of missionaries to Asia and Africa. But is there not here a vast mission field for effort and influence?

A LITTLE RECENT IMPROVEMENT IN SOME STATES.

The State of Mississippi, Arkansas, and the Carolinas, all need great reforms in this matter; but especially Florida and Georgia. Their forest terpentine works and their phosphate mines are often awful spots, morally and physically. Louisiana is making some special efforts at improvement. Alabama and Texas are perhaps better than formerly. Yet a prison chaplain in Texas writes to Howard Association (1898.) "Practically there has been no advance in the lease system of our convicts. It can only be an evil."

GENERAL OPPRESSION OF THE COLORED RACE.

The Howard Association has also received, in connection with these sad accounts of southern camps and chain gangs, much information showing that they form but one portion or still a vaster system of oppression of the colored race generally in the Southern States. The Voice of Missions, Atlanta, December, 1898, contains a long and terrible indictment of the white race for the treatment of the colored people since 1865.

It says: "The Cuban War and its results and the American massacres are nothing when compared with the thirty years of 'whitewashing,' chasing by bloodhounds, murdering, burning at the stake, lynching, flogging, swindling, robbing, defamation of character, injustice, false imprisonment and oppression, which the colored people of America have passed through, and are still undergoing." "This year 300 have been lynched and murdered by our white Christian friends and no voice but our own weak cry has been raised in protest." Many negroes were shot by the white democrats in North and South Carolina during the November elections of 1898. Recently also, many unoffending colored people have been driven away from their homes and farms in the South by violent and covetous white neighbors.

The same journal complains of the silence of the pulpit, both North and South, respecting these evils, and remarked that even the United States Supreme Court at Washington has always turned scale against the colored race. Also that several of the Southern States have disfranchised the negroes by wholesale, in violation of the Federal Constitution, whilst returning them all as voters for the purpose of their own proportionate representation in Congress. It is known that some prominent politician and legislators at Washington have made large fortunes as convict contractors.

THE LYNCHINGS.

In the Richmond Planet, July 23rd 1898, a bishop is quoted as saying: "Enough colored men have been lynched to reach a mile high, if laid one upon another and nearly as many women and children to make a similar pile."

These lynchings are defended by many persons on the ground of their necessity of protecting white women from negro assaults. No doubt, occasionally such crimes of this kind have been committed by them, but they have been immensely outnumbered by similar outrages by whites upon the females of the weaker race.

The colored people have need to clear themselves from complicity with such crimes, and also to cultivate more honesty and truthfulness. Nor can they expect to be much respected until they manifest more self-respect and become less characterized, as a people, by their everlasting grin and giggle. Lord Chesterfield said: "I never knew a 'Merry-Andrew' a respected man." But the colored people are too often such fools, and until as a race, they manage to make themselves both respected and feared, they are not likely to get the justice which is due to them. Buffoons will be despised.

CONVICT MORTALITY.

Even the aggregate of lynchings is very small in comparison with the enormous mortality of the convicts in the camps and chain gangs. Whereas in English convict prisons the death rate is under 7 per 1000 per annum, it ranges in these camps from 75 to over 200 per 1000 yearly.

WHO WILL HELP.

The Voice of Missions mournfully remarks:—"There are no advocates of human rights in the United States today. Charles Sumner is dead, Abraham Lincoln is gone, Wendell Phillips, Wm. Lloyd Garrison, Frederick Douglass and Harriet Beecher Stowe have all passed away; and with them went the last great advocates of human rights." This complaint is, however, too pessimistic.

Yet even the Society of Friends (Quakers) in America, once the foremost champions of the negro, through their J. G. Whittier, Thomas Garrett, Isaac B. Hopper, Levi Coffin, Francis T. King and other good men, have of late years, become strangely silent and apparently apathetic, as to the oppressed race.

SELF HELP.

However, a people of twelve million ought no longer to be mainly dependent upon or looking to others for their own protection. They must now chiefly turn to schemes of self-help—or remain oppressed.

THE PROBLEM.

An American correspondent of the Howard Association (1899) says: "The negro trouble has become so great that, I fear, the difficulty can never be settled but with blood."

The problem is indeed a vast one, and of pressing import to the United States, both North and South. Is the Christianity of that great nation to remain impotent for the solution? Are the colored people to be driven to what now appears to be their only means of relief—by self-help, through imitating the methods of their adversaries in the formation of Secret Societies and powerful and compact, Organized Unions, for defence and offence? It is only thus, that they can make themselves what they must be, somewhat respected and feared as a race? But at else are they to do, unless the white race bestirs itself for other efforts than continuing oppression?

A CURIOUS CUSTOM.

PUNISHMENT OF ANIMALS THAT WERE FORMERLY IN VOGUE IN EUROPE.

They Were Sometimes Put to the Rack in Order to Extort Confession—In Other Instances They Were Buried Alive—Figs Hanged or Burned for Murder.

Beasts were often condemned to be burned alive, and, strangely enough, it was in the latter half of the seventeenth century, an age of comparative enlightenment, that this cruel penalty was most frequently inflicted. Occasionally a merciful judge adhered to the letter of the law by sentencing the culprit to be slightly singed, and then to be strangled before being burned. Sometimes they were condemned to be buried alive. Such was the fate suffered by two pigs in 1456, "on the vigil of the holy virgin," at Oppenheim-on-the-Rhine, for killing a child. Animals were even put to the rack in order to extort confession. It is not to be supposed that the judge had the slightest expectation that any confession would be made; he wished simply to observe all forms prescribed by the law, and to set in motion the whole machinery of justice before pronouncing judgment. "The question," which in such cases would seem to be only a wanton and superfluous act of cruelty, was nevertheless an important element in determining the final decision, since the death sentence could be commuted into banishment provided the criminal had not confessed under torture. The use of the rack was therefore a means of escaping the gallows. Appeals were sometimes made to higher tribunals, and the judgments of the lower courts annulled or modified. In one instance a sow and a she-ass were condemned to be hanged; on appeal and after a new trial they were sentenced to be simply knocked on the head. In another instance an appeal led to the acquittal of the accused.

In 1296, at Fontenay-aux-Roses, near Paris, a pig, convicted of having eaten a child, was publicly burned by order of the monks of Sainte-Geneviève. In 1386 the tribunal of Falaise sentenced a sow to be mangled and maimed in the head and leg, and then to be hanged, for having torn the face and arm of a child and caused its death. Here we have a strict application of the lex talionis. The sow was dressed in man's clothes and executed in the public square, near the city hall, at the expense to the state of ten sous and ten deniers, besides a pair of gloves to the hangman.

The executioner was provided with new gloves in order that he might come from the discharge of his duty with clean hands, thus indicating that as a minister of justice he incurred no guilt in shedding blood. He was not a common butcher of swine, but a public functionary, a "master of high works" (maitre des hautes oeuvres) as he was officially styled. In 1394 a pig was found guilty of "having killed and murdered a child in the parish of Roumaygne, in the county of Mortain, for which deed said pig was condemned to be drawn and hanged by Jehan Pettit, lieutenant of the bailiff."

There is also extant an order issued by the magistracy of Glisors in 1405, commanding payment to be made to the carpenter who had erected the scaffold which an ox had been executed "for its demerits."

On the 9th of June, 1576, at Schweinfurt, in Franconia, a sow which had bitten off the ear and torn the hand of a child was given in custody to the hangman, who, without further authority, took it to the gallows green and there "hanged it publicly, to the disgrace and detriment of the city."

On the 10th of January, 1457, a sow was convicted of murder, committed on the person of an infant named Jehan Martin of Savigny, and sentenced to be hanged. Her six sucklings were also included in the indictment as accomplices, but in default of positive proof that they had assisted in mangling the deceased, they were restored to their owner, on condition that he should give bail for their appearance should further evidence be forthcoming to prove their complicity in their mother's crime.

The Killing Shark.

A painful moment on board ship at sea is that when some poor mortal, who has died on the voyage, has to be laid away in the bosom of the deep with the simple ceremonies of an ocean burial.

A vessel carrying a dead body and passing through waters frequented by sharks is almost sure to be followed by one or more of those fishes if it does not out-speed them.

Rather than bury a corpse while sharks are following the vessel the captain will sometimes have a body placed in the ice chamber and full steam put on the engines until the hungry fishes have dropped astern completely.

In one case at least a body was actually cremated on board by the captain's orders because of the sharks. But sharks are not often obstacles to prompt burial, and, generally speaking, when death occurs at sea the body is slipped into the water at night with none to witness the proceeding but a couple of the crew and the captain, who reads an abridgment of the service from the Prayer Book.

The Oldest Clocks.

The oldest clocks of American manufacture were made by Gideon Roberts, of Bristol, Conn. According to the best authorities, no clocks were manufactured in what are now the United States prior to 1800, at which time Mr. Roberts first placed his timepieces on the market. His clocks were made with the greatest care, and much time was spent in perfecting them. They were all of the style commonly known as "ball" clocks, about six feet in height, handsomely finished and a recognized separate piece of furniture in which the owner always took great pride.

BLOODTHIRSTY OUTLAWS.

Their Daring Depredations Have Aroused the Officials of Four States.

CASSIDY IS THE LEADER.

Governors of Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and Idaho meet to Devise Means to Capture or Kill.

Marauding and Murderous Bands Conduct Their Outrages Practically Without Restraint—Rewards Offered for "Butch" Cassidy Aggregate Over Twenty Thousand Dollars.

Within a short time, in the city of Salt Lake, Utah, there was held a meeting of the governors of four states of the Union, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and Idaho, for the purpose of devising means to rid the fastnesses of the Rocky Mountains of a gang of outlaws that has pillaged all that came within their reach. The gang includes 500 of the wildest desperadoes in the west. This in the present day may sound like an exaggeration, but that is not the case. Under the leadership of "Butch" Cassidy no more villainous ruffianly band was ever organized. That their depredations have not been more extensive has been due to the safeguards with which civilization has surrounded the country.

After the ordinary methods of hunting outlaws had been tried unsuccessfully it was decided that drastic means must be employed. Rewards have been repeatedly offered for "Butch" Cassidy, dead or alive, and after each fresh outbreak these awards have invariably been increased. If all the offers which have been made from time to time hold good, the slayer of "Butch" should be ever live to claim his reward would be entitled to upward of $20,000 in blood money.

The forces are subdivided into five bands, each controlled by its own leader, with Cassidy as the supreme power. The outlaws now practically control the sparsely settled region extending from central Wyoming southwesterly through northwestern Colorado and Utah, and almost to the Arizona line. Marauding and murderous bands conduct their raids without restraint. The thefts of live stock run into the millions. Ranchmen are murdered and driven out of business, and the officers of the law are powerless.

These bands have a number of strongholds in the mountains. Each is both a rendezvous and a fortress, absolutely impregnable. They can only be reached by traversing deep and narrow gorges, scaling lofty and rugged peaks and penetrating the wildest recesses of the Rocky mountains. In many places the only trail lies over a narrow shelf of rock, cut by the bandits along the face of a precipice. Holes have been drilled into which in case of close pursuit dynamite can be placed and the trail blown into the chasm below, thus baffling all pursuit.

About four years ago "Butch" was shot at from ambush near Green river by a cowboy known as "Hackney" Hughes, whose only object was to secure the reward offered by the state authorities of Utah. The bullet pierced the lobe of his ear and the blood streaming down his face was concealed. For unique profanity "Butch" Cassidy hasn't his equal in the states and on that occasion he is said to have fairly surpassed himself. Ripping out a string of oaths that would reach from Dan to Beersheba he jumped from his horse below the villain's aim, and then the cowboy shot the outlaw's horse, which had been grazing in the open. That was more than "Butch" could stand. Throwing caution to the winds he ran towards the clump of bushes with a pistol in each hand, barking at every step.

But Hughes, considering discretion the better part of valor, had jumped on his horse and succeeded in making good his escape. But the vindictive nature of "Butch" Cassidy asserted itself. He had recognized his assailant, and every member of the band received instructions to be on the watch for him. Hughes left the Green river country, and it was not until six months later that he was located, on the north fork of the Powder river, up in Wyoming.

Cassidy was notified, and with a dozen picked men he reached the ranch where Hughes was working. It was during the spring roundup. The two men met face to face. Hughes knew what was coming and pulled his gun. But he wasn't quick enough. Cassidy's pistol cracked first, and the cowboy dropped from his saddle with a bullet through his right eye.

Cattle stealing is the chief source of income to Cassidy and his followers. One company alone in central Utah has lost 2,000 head during the past two years, worth at the present prices, $80,000. These were driven through Colorado and into New Mexico. It is a driving these stolen cattle from one state into another and out of the country that their system of co-operation is beneficial.

However, any operation that promises adventure and financial reward is never overlooked. Trains are held up, express companies and banks are robbed, and even individuals, when known to have money in their possession are relieved of their possessions in a true road agent style.
